

“More and more teachers are recognising the role of the NUT in providing high quality professional development. Our CPD prospectus is going to grow. We are a learning union.”

Steve Sinnott, NUT Annual Conference 2006, Torquay

The NUT has established itself over the last six years as a successful provider of professional development. Developments during 2006/7 include:

- an exciting new partnership with the University of Cambridge Faculty of Education, which will organise learning circles in NUT local associations
- new TEACHER2TEACHER programmes focusing on dialogic learning
- CPD workshops with the BBC and Teachers' TV
- additional targeted, “improving behaviour” professional development
- mentoring and coaching skills enhancement
- eLearning opportunities including our new Making the most of your coach or mentor distance learning resource.

Collaborative and sustained learning opportunities are the NUT's priority. Many have an initial input and then a follow-up event (after participants have trialled new strategies in their classrooms/schools). Attendance in pairs is always encouraged.

The core professional development opportunities during the early part of 2006/7 are listed on the following two pages. A response form is on the last page. Regular updates will appear in The Teacher.

Full details can always be found and applications made at www.teachers.org.uk/cpd.

eLearning

You decide when, where and with whom you learn

Make the most of your coach or mentor (e/2)

Get what you want from coaching & mentoring. Unique to NUT members.

Too often, training and materials for mentoring and coaching focus exclusively on the skills of coaches and mentors themselves. Now the Centre for the Use of Research and Evidence in Education has developed for the NUT an interactive multimedia distance learning resource. It enables teachers being coached or mentored to act confidently when they are discussing their teaching and learning with their coaches/mentors. This resource puts you in charge of your own learning and enhances your skills.

Available now at www.teachers.org.uk (membership no. password).

Meet the parents (e/1)

An eLearning course helping teachers improve their skills in talking and listening with parents. The course offers techniques that will help teachers and parents get more out of their limited time for conversation. Four situations focus on pupil behaviour.

Developed in partnership with The Dialogue Company, this resource will be valuable to teachers new to meeting with parents, mentors working with such teachers, and experienced teachers who want to reflect on their management of dialogue with parents.

The first 50 passwords (which remain active for three months) are available now priced £15 (NUT), £30 (others).

eBook Club (e/3)

Read the book. Discuss it with the authors. Try out strategies with your pupils. Discuss successes and challenges with other readers and the authors. All online. First book: Thinking and learning with ICT – raising achievement in primary classrooms by Rupert Wegerif and Lyn Dawes. 130 pages of thought-provoking ideas.

£10 (NUT) £20 (others) Includes copy of the book.

Need to know

- “R” regional course where applicants expected to live within approx 1½ hr journey of venue. No reclaiming of travel expenses.
- NUT members can claim travel expenses (with receipts) on T2T, TnC, tt, OO and TF. No travel expenses on OD conferences.
- All participants awarded a personalised certificate of attendance/completion.
- Professional recognition through GTCE’s Teacher Learning Academy (stage 1) is available (optional) on most T2T, tt, TnC, OO, OD and TF.
- All NUT CPD opportunities are eligible for funding from professional development budgets delegated to schools and/or, in Wales, CPD bursaries available from GTCW.
- The NUT cannot pay for supply cover.

BBC

jam & Teachers’ TV

The workshop of two halves

teachers'tv

jam and TV – great!

Know what your pupils will be learning from jam, the new BBC website targeted at 5-16 year olds and based on the school curriculum. Understand the relevance jam might have for your teaching. Explore how jam could personalise extension/reinforcement learning at home and you could help pupils from less advantaged backgrounds.

Teachers’ TV website is a fantastic resource and stimulus for teachers’ professional development (and you control when, where and how you use it). Raise your awareness of what is available and identify how the website can support and enhance CPD in your school for individual and collaborative professional learning.

Attend one or both (2½ hour) halves of the workshop – hands-on + strategic discussion. (Food/refreshment for those attending both halves.)

UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE

Partnership for professional learning

Why not join a learning circle (LC) and gain the University of Cambridge Certificate in Educational Enquiry? Members at all stages of their careers (plus their learning partners from within the same school) in four NUT local associations – Harlow and Epping, Bedford, Mid-Hertfordshire and Hounslow – are invited to take part in this pilot programme.

Each learning circle will include 20-25 teachers from all key stages and all types of school. They will engage in 15 hours’ face-to-face, tutor-led collaborative learning and 15 hours school-based enquiry, reflection and analysis.

To register your interest and for details put “LC” and the name of your NUT local association in Section A on the back of this leaflet.
